I loved Secrets and Lies which captivated me instantly with its abundant humour, charm, angst, characters, mystery and sexiness, keeping my mind searching for clues to help uncover the guise put on by the sexy and artistic Nathan Smith, who happened to just carry the Ferro men trade mark in hotness, bad boy looks and charm.

What I both love and hate about Secrets & Lies is that it's very different from the other Ferro books. There are multiple guys that Kerry meets over the course of the book, but none of them is obviously a Ferro or even has the name of any of the Ferros we already know of. It's kind of weird. However, so far, I really liked the story.

Jakko Jakszyk had a life-changing moment when he saw King Crimson playing Watford Town Hall on the 15th July 1971. Hearing the band that night instilled in the 13-year-old Jakko a determination to become a professional musician, setting him off on the road to what has been by any definition a remarkable career. 2020 sees the release of Jakko Jakszyk's latest solo album, "Secrets & Lies ...
