I was given a STR-DH800 AV receiver that had previously been used in a NUVO whole house system. It was used as a pre-amp/mixer connected to the NUVO amplifier/distribution amp. Now all it will do is a low volume when turned all the way up to maximum volume. I suspect there is a setting for line level out so the full volume is not available.

Best Buy is great with honoring competitors ads. With that being said, this made the STR-DH800 an excellent buy for the features that it has. There are a lot of reviews on the setup/owners manual being difficult to understand, which I could see. I have done a number of setups with different manufacturers receivers however, and this was not bad.
